Joseph Sorbara 6T3, M.A., LL.B., Chairs St. Michael's $7,700,000 Drive

Joseph Sorbara 6T3,
Chairman of St. Michael's component of The Campaign

President Richard Alway has announced that Joseph Sorbara has agreed to accept the appointment of St. Michael's component of The Campaign for the University of Toronto. The Campaign, officially launched in early October, has a goal of raising $400 million for the UofT; it is the largest fund-raising campaign in Canadian history. The Campaign will conclude in 2002, the year which marks the sesquicentennial of the founding of St. Michael's by the Basilian Fathers in 1852. The University is in full agreement with and supports the priority projects identified by St. Michael's for this campaign. These projects are: endowed Chairs in Christianity and Culture and in Celtic Studies; a Visiting Scholar's Fund in Celtic Studies; student aid endowment fund; a John M. Kelly book acquisition endowment fund; an electronic classroom; increased and enhanced John M. Kelly Library computer facilities and equipment; and the restoration and renovation of the historic student-residence houses on Elmsley Place.

Loretto Sisters Mark 150 Years In North America

In a moving sunrise ritual on 16 September 1997, members of the Institute of the Blessed Virgin Mary were joined by many friends on the Toronto shores of Lake Ontario to mark the 150th anniversary of the arrival of the first members of the Institute in North America. Five Loretto Sisters, Ignatia Hutchinson, Bonaventure Phelan, Valentina Hutchinson, Gertrude Fleming, and Teresa Dease, came ashore in Toronto after a harrowing six-weeks sea voyage from their native Ireland. In answer to the request of Bishop Michael Power, first bishop of Toronto, they came to teach the Irish children in his diocese. They found themselves faced with the dangers of the typhus epidemic that raged in the city and which took the life of Bishop Power shortly after the Sisters' arrival.

Bishop Terrence Prendergast, S.J. extended greetings from the Archdiocese of Toronto, Barbara Hall, Mayor of the City of Toronto, spoke of the contribution of the Loretto Sisters to the community, and Johanne Stewart, Director of Education, Toronto Metropolitan Separate School Board, offered personal reflections on her experience as a student of the Loretto Sisters and spoke of the debt owed to them for their work in education (Sister Gertrude Fleming was the first religious separate-school teacher in Toronto).

Monignor Philip Murnion

Monsignor Philip
Murnion, 1998 Kelly
Lecturer

Monsignor Philip Murnion, Director of the National Pastoral Life Center, New York City, and associate of the late Cardinal Joseph Bernardin in the "Common Ground" project, will deliver the 18th John M. Kelly Theology Lecture on Thursday 26 March 1998 at 8:00 P.M. in Sam Sorbara Hall, Brennan Hall, St. Michael's College. Monsignor Murnion received his doctoral degree in Sociology from Columbia University, has taught at both Fordham University and Boston College, and has lectured widely and written frequently on parish ministry. The National Pastoral Life Center recently published a study entitled, "New Parish Ministers: Lay and Religious on Parish Staffs." At a time of concern and tension over ecclesial structural shifts and developments in pastoral ministry, Monsignor Murnion is noted for his efforts to foster irenic conversations and dialogue among groups within the Church holding differing views on these matters.

So, reserve Thursday 26 March 1998 at 8:00 P.M. for the Kelly Lecture!

1997-98 Annual Fund: The Challenge

(and maybe some confusion!)

By Robert Madden, C.S.B.

Every year has challenges for St. Mike's. The main challenge is not only to maintain but to develop and enhance the Catholic educational experience whose excellence is the hallmark of the College, and which attracted over 3,000 applications from prospective first-year students this year. This challenge presents another one: to fund the excellent educational offerings and opportunities provided to the over 3,300 deserving students enrolled here. At the heart of those offerings and opportunities, at the heart of the very life of the College, are the work of the Chaplaincy, the unique academic programmes in Christianity and Culture, in Celtic Studies, and in Medieval Studies, the outstanding Kelly Library collections and facilities, and other special spiritual, intellectual, cultural, social, and athletic programmes and activities. As you are well aware, each year each one of these relies heavily on the Annual Fund for the finances to sustain their quality and, in some instances, their existence.

We need $600,000 from the 1997-98 Annual Fund to support them. If you have already made your Annual Fund donation this year, many thanks; if you have not, you have until mid-April to send in your gift.

If you have not received an Annual Fund appeal form, simply make out a cheque to "St. Michael's College Annual Fund" and mail it to: The Alumni Office, St. Michael's College, 81 St. Mary St., Toronto, Ont., M5S 1J4. You can also phone 416-926-7260 and make a credit card donation. You will receive a receipt for tax purposes. The Ontario Government is still a source of major funding to the University, but it now ranks last of all the provinces in Canada in its support of post-secondary education. This has increased our need for private support.

We work closely with the Development Office of the University of Toronto and receive many essential services from them. That office has been converting its computer system extensively, and has been experimenting with new approaches in the Annual Fund appeal process. These projects, complicated by the recent Canadian postal strike, have led to some delay in issuing appeal material and in the issuing of receipts. There has also been some confusion as to what happens to gifts intended for St. Michael's. We apologize for the delays (we are assured that matters will improve--and they already are improving), and let me assure you that any gift you designate to St. Michael's comes to St. Michael's; any gift you designate to another UoFt constituency goes there, and your receipt will come from there; the University Development Office is very conscientious about observing the wishes of our donors.

The St. Michael's Annual Fund history is a proud one since its beginnings in 1962. The College is grateful to all who have contributed in the past, and asks each of you to do what you can to contribute now. By contributing to the life of St. Michael's, you will share in an important and significant way in its Catholic educational mission.

MONSIGNOR EDWARD ALOYSIUS SYNAN, 1918-1997

Monsignor Edward A. Synan, 1918 - 1997

Ed's note: On 3 August last, the St. Michael's community lost through death one of its most dedicated, admired and respected members, Monsignor Edward Synan. The following address of appreciation in his memory was offered at the St. Michael's Convocation 6 December 1997 by Fr. James K. Farge, C.S.B., Fellow of the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies.]

Eminent Chancellor, the committee of the Senate of St. Michael's, appointed to nominate candidates for degrees honoris causa, unanimously chose Edward Aloysius Synan, a priest of the archdiocese of Newark, University professor at St. Michael's, Senior Fellow Emeritus of the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies, and a prelate of honour to his holiness Pope John Paul II, to be among the honourees today. It was not to be. On August 3 of this year, Monsignor Synan died after a short illness at the age of 79.

Had I the honour of presenting Edward Synan to you today I would stress first of all his fifty-year-long involvement with St. Michael's and the Pontifical Institute, as student, as teacher, and as president of the Institute. Edward Synan knew that Catholic institutions like the ones he chose to serve here are strategic to the mission of the Church in the world. His own work in the field of the history of medieval philosophy produced eight books and over one hundred learned articles. It inspired his charismatic teaching and his open-door welcome and wise counsel to students and colleagues alike.

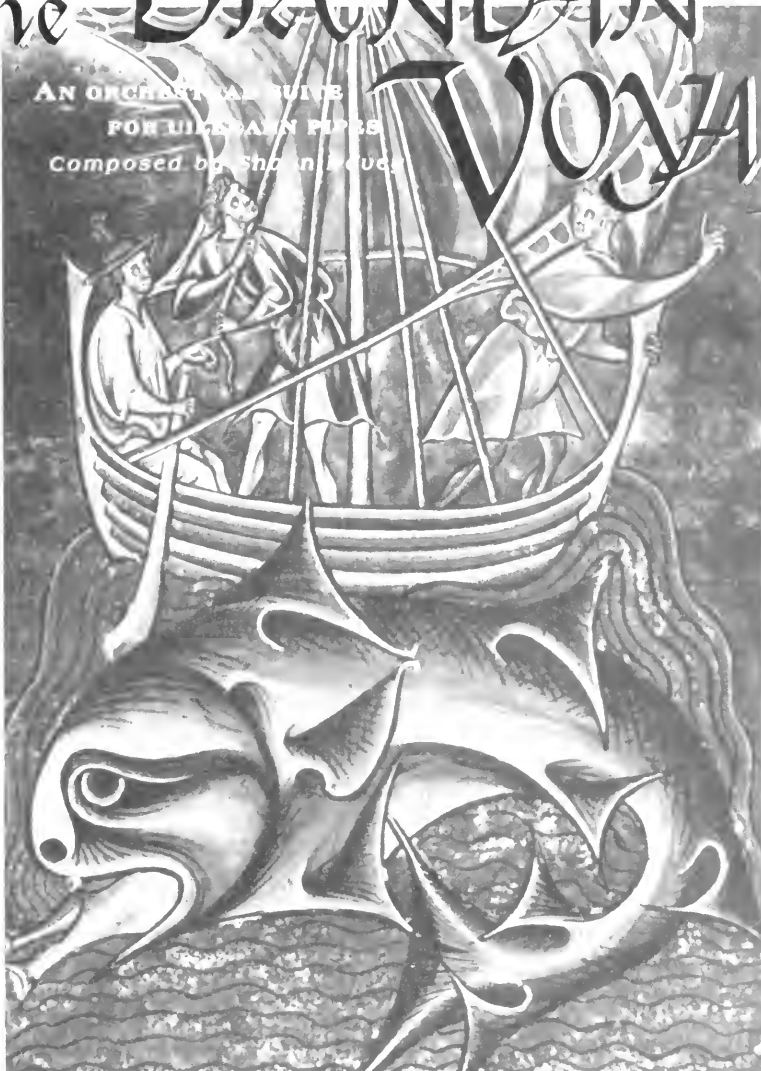

After ordination as a priest in 1942, Edward Synan served for four years as chaplain in the United States Army Air Forces. He then took graduate degrees at the Pontifical Institute and the University of Toronto, and began his life of research, teaching, and administration. In recognition, three institutions conferred honorary degrees on him, and the Royal Society of Canada inducted him as a Fellow in 1980. The American Catholic Philosophical Association awarded him its Aquinas Medal in 1990.

Edward Synan felt strongly the ills of the world, and hoped that his vocation as priest and teacher might make a difference in it. That hope, anchored in faith and lived in prudence and justice, moved him to apply the Catholic philosophical and theological tradition to ethical and political problems. The Michaelmas Conference, the Institute's outreach to lay professionals, was one channel for this. Appalled by the Holocaust, he wrote a book and a dozen articles to foster Jewish-Christian relations. Responding to legalized abortion, he and a colleague at St. Michael's produced the book Death Before Birth. In the 1980's he worked tirelessly to promote the Polish Solidarity movement that eventually broke Soviet domination in Eastern Europe. Edward Synan never saw the inside of an ivory tower. He was a model of the Christian academic and citizen.

Eminent Chancellor, it is therefore appropriate that in this convocation we, his colleagues, students, and friends honour the memory of Monsignor Edward Synan and give thanks for the life that he lived for the Church, for St. Michael's, for us all.

- St. Michael's received the "Certificate of Commendations" from Heritage Toronto for "the restoration of significant heritage features of the 1856 Clover Hill Building." The award was made at the Heritage Toronto Annual Awards Ceremony in the Winter Garden Theater, Toronto.
- The annual joint St. Michael's-Victoria "Orientation Convocation Ceremony" was held 2 September in Convocation Hall. This year's Orientation Convocation address was delivered by Tony Comper 6T6, President and Chief Operating Officer of the Bank of Montreal. Tony, who also is the Chair of the Governing Council of the UoT and of the University's current fund-raising campaign, spoke of the continuing value of a liberal arts education (he specialized in English!), and of how his education at St. Michael's at the UoT has helped him in his career.

- Fr. Claude Arnold, C.S.B., Professor Emeritus (English), and Superior of the Basilians at St. Michael's, has seen the 700-page result of 19 years of research published by Greenwood Press, Westport, CT. Number 73 in Greenwood's Discography Series, the volume is entitled The Orchestra on Record 1896-1926: An Encyclopedia of Orchestral Recordings made by the Acoustical Process.
- The tenth Parent Orientation Day for parents of St. Michael's first-year students was, as in the past, much appreciated by those attending. Over 500 were present on Sunday 28 September for the opening Mass, prepared by the College Chaplaincy and student choir, followed by the alumni co-sponsored brunch, after which there were presentations by President Richard Alway 6T2, Acting-Principal Mariel O'Neill-Karch, and Susan Adam Metzler 6T2 about the College, college academic life, and "the first-year parent experience."

Tours of the campus and of the Kelly Library were available, and the afternoon concluded with the awarding of various St. Michael's and University entrance scholarships and bursaries. Mrs. Evelyn Collins, of the Kelly Library staff, was again the Chair of the Parent Orientation Day task force.

- Celtic Studies: About 100 (including the Irish Ambassador to Canada) attended the annual St. Michael's Celtic Studies Conference held on campus 1 November. Its title was "The Heritage of St. Columba," and scholars from the University of Toronto, from the University of Wales, from University College, Dublin, and from Harvard University made presentations.
- During the past summer St. Michael's Celtic Studies summer scholarship students were involved in various projects in Oideas Gael, Donegal; in University College, Dublin; in University College, Galway; and in Edinburgh; one student was engaged in archeological digs in the Orkneys, in Ireland, and at Hadrian's Wall.
- Of the three members of the entire Philosophy Department of the UoT promoted last spring to the rank of Full Professor, two were members of the Philosophy Group at St. Michael's: Professors Elmar Kremer and Michael Vertin. For promotion to Full Professor the University requires clear proof of excellence in teaching and in research.
- Approximately 120 participated in the day-long "Ethics and the Media Colloquium" sponsored, organized and presented at the College by the St. Michael's Division of Continuing Education on 25 October. Professional journalists and broadcasters joined academics and ethicists in discussion and debate. Initial planning is underway for the next one: a Colloquium on Ethics and Business. Stay tuned for details!
- A meeting of post-secondary Catholic educators convened at St. Michael's on 29 October by Professor Lorna Bowman, St. Michael's Faculty of Theology, and attended by, among others, St. Michael's representatives Dr. Mimi Marrocco 6T9, Director of Continuing Education, and Professor Mark McGowan, of the Christianity and Culture Programme, culminated in the formation of an "Association of Post-Secondary Catholic Educators of Ontario." presentation by Dr. Marrocco on the new Association, Ontario attendees agreed that their institutions would appoint representatives to it who would report back to them on issues relating to Catholic education in general and to the education of Catholic teachers in particular.

- Professor Jill Webster, Professor Emeritus of the Department of Spanish and Portuguese, and Acting Director of the St. Michael's Writing Centre, has been very busy: at the invitation of the Carmelite Provincial Prior of Catalonia, Spain, she gave the official presentation, in Catalan, at the public May launching of a newly published history of the Carmelites in Barcelona; she presented papers at the XVI Congreso Internacional de Historia de la Corona de Aragon, held in Naples, Italy in September, at the X International Congress of the Order of Saint Augustine, in Madrid in October, and at the American Academy of Research Historians for Medieval Spain, in Seattle in January. Oh yes, she is also seeing her book, Forward in Faith: Carmel in Medieval Catalonia, through the publication process.

Healthy, Wealthy & Wise Seminar

On the evening of October 21, St. Michael's graduates and friends were treated to a presentation, Healthy, Wealthy, and Wise, by three St. Michael's alumni. Catherine Brayley SMC 719, a tax lawyer, Dr. Peter Barreca, SMC 710, a physician, and James Breech, SMC 6T6, an investment counsellor, discussed the numerous lifestyle adjustments one can make now to increase the possibility of a longer, happier and healthier life. St. Michael's College Convocation

For the first time, candidates from the Continuing Education Division of St. Michael's received specialized Certificates during the Convocation, joining the graduates from the Faculty of Theology who received various degrees, diplomas and certificates in Theology.

At the Convocation St. Michael's conferred honorary doctoral degrees upon The Honourable Hilary M. Weston, Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, and upon Dr. Andrew and Mrs. Joan Simone, Founders of the Canadian Food for Children Project. Fr. James Farge, C.S.B., Senior Fellow of the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies, offered an address of appreciation in memory of Monsignor Edward A. Synan, who had been designated to receive an honorary degree by the Senate of St. Michael's before his sudden death on 3 August 1997.

The Honourable Hilary Weston gave the Convocation address, which stressed the importance of maintaining the values of family life.

A reception in Odette Lounge followed the ceremony in St. Basil's Church.

were represented by 45 successful candidates, 35 of whom were able to be present. The Certificate in the Catechesis of the Good Shepherd included among its graduates Elly Kaas (SMC 7T8) and Joseph Tanel (SMC 7T7). Receiving a Doctor of Ministry degree with a dissertation on the Catechesis of the Good Shepherd was Patricia Coulter, (SMC 6T9). Dr. Coulter, who developed the curriculum for the certificate programme and continues as its lead instructor, helped to initiate the partnership between her employer, the Archdiocese of Toronto's Religious Education Office, and St. Michael's. Conceived by Italian educator Sofia Cavaletti, the programme trains the adults "to learn from children, to be guided by them and to provide for their needs." Continuing Education Director Mimi Marrocco 6T9, acknowledged the presence of Most Reverend Aloysius Ambrozic, Archbishop of Toronto, whose signature, together with that of President Richard Alway, appears on these certificates.

The Certificate in Catholic Education Leadership, awarded in partnership with the Institute for Catholic Education, began as a collaboration between the Catholic Health Association of Ontario and St. Michael's and has now been broadened to meet the learning needs of senior administrators in Catholic institutions for health care, education and social services. Twenty-one candidates (directors and supervisory officers with Ontario separate school boards) were eligible to receive the certificate this year. Fifteen were present, including John Watts (SMC 6T8), Associate Director of Education for the Dufferin Peel Catholic School board. Since all already have several degrees to their credit, including masters and doctorates, their participation at this convocation underlined their affirmation of the importance of Catholic leadership.

The Canadian Certificate in Youth Ministry Studies, awarded this year to 10 candidates, is the oldest of the three certificates awarded, and is currently in its ninth year at St. Michael's. This programme, based on curriculum adapted for Canada by Canadian Ministry Support Services in Saskatoon, is offered in association with the Center for Ministry Development, Naugatuck, Connecticut. Intended as professional preparation of coordinators of Youth Ministry in parishes and for pastors, pastoral workers, school chaplains and teachers, guidance counselors, campus ministers and parents, the Certificate has been awarded through St. Michael's to more than sixty successful candidates since 1989. St. Michael's alumnus Brian Halferty 6T5 and his wife, Mary Lou, were among this year's certificate recipients.

Joseph Sorbara received the Bachelor of Arts degree from St. Michael's in 1963 and has long been one of the College's more prominent alumni and generous benefactors. After completion of an M.A. in English in 1965, then an LL.B. at Osgoode Hall in 1963, Mr. Sorbara entered the practice of law, and in 1972 became one of the founding partners of the firm of Tanzola and Sorbara. Since the mid-1980s he has been actively involved in the management and operation of various family controlled corporations, which carry on real estate, brokerage, and development and construction activities, as well as an insurance brokerage business. While advancing his highly successful legal and business career, Mr. Sorbara has found time to be actively involved in a variety of charitable and community organizations, including membership on the boards of the York Finch General Hospital, the Black Creek Rotary Club, the Toronto Symphony, and the Villa Colombo Home for the Aged. A past chairman of the Board of Governors of Humber College and currently Vice-Chairman of the Board of Governors of York University, Mr. Sorbara also brings a wealth of experience in college and university affairs to his new appointment at St. Michael's. In announcing the appointment, President Alway said, "We are indeed fortunate to obtain the valued volunteer services of Joseph Sorbara; he will play a leading role in attracting support from St. Michael's alumni and friends for the priority projects that St. Michael's has proposed for the University of Toronto's Campaign. St. Michael's is happy to have secured his generous assistance in leading its fund-raising activities into the new millennium. Indeed, the College is most grateful to the entire Sorbara family, Sam and Grace, Edward, Gregory, Marcella, and Joseph for their continuing loyalty and support."

On accepting this appointment, Mr. Sorbara stated, "Chairing the St. Michael's Capital Campaign is an exciting challenge and an opportunity, personally, to contribute to the future of the "institution" that gave my father his start in life and provided a terrific educational experience for myself, my brothers and my sister, as well as for one of her sons."

Probate Fees

plan their affairs to minimize taxes. One tax they often overlook is probate. Recent years, have been increased significantly.

What is probate? Probate is the validation of an appointment of the executor named in the will. It is the process by which the court determines that the will is valid and has not been revoked. It is the time the will received probate. Most financial institutions will require a copy of probate before releasing assets to a deceased taxpayer's heirs.

Probate Fees: Probate fees are calculated as a percentage of the value of all the taxpayer's personal assets and real estate located in the province, less related mortgages. Fee schedules vary according to the province in which the property is located and range from $4 per $1,000 of assets in Newfoundland to $15 per $1,000 in Ontario. All provinces except Quebec charge graduated probate fees: some have an exemption for small estates, while Alberta caps the fees at $6,000 on assets of $1 million or more. Quebec only levies a flat administration fee, the amount of which is nominal.

Minimizing Probate Fees: There are a number of ways to minimize probate fees. Most of these ideas involve other tax issues concerning capital gains and income attribution, which also need to be considered.

1. GIVE PROPERTY AWAY BEFORE DEATH: You eliminate probate fees by transferring property to your intended heirs, or by donating it to charities during your lifetime. Do not overlook the capital gains implications of such inter vivos gifts.

2. TRANSFER ASSETS TO A TRUST: Another technique is to transfer assets to a trust for the beneficial interest of yourself and or your heirs. The assets no longer form part of your estate, but belong to the trust, which has a separate existence of its own. The trust deed provides for the ultimate disposition of your assets after your death, just as you would in your will. This will also give rise to capital gains implications.

3. JOINT OWNERSHIP: Where assets are held jointly, probate fees are not charged on the first death of a joint owner because title passes to the survivor automatically and not under the will. Putting ownership of a home, a cottage, or a brokerage account in the joint names of you and your spouse will save probate fees. Similarly, making an adult child joint owner of the assets of an elderly parent should have the same result, but legal advice should be sought to ensure the parent's interests are protected. Transferring assets to joint ownership does result in a transfer of beneficial interest from the sole owner to the other joint owners. This may trigger capital gains, except where the transfer is to a spouse.

4. DESIGNATE BENEFICIARY: If you designate the beneficiary under your life insurance policy, RRSP or RRIF, the proceeds will pass directly to that beneficiary, again avoiding probate.

5. CORPORATIONS: Although shares of a private company form part of an individual's estate, probate is not always required to transfer the shares of the family business. The corporation does not require the same level of protection as third-party institutions when transferring the shares to an heir. A holding company created to hold portfolio investments financed by loans can also reduce the net assets subject to probate. Only the fair market value of the holding company's shares will be included in the value of the estate. Outstanding debt in the company used to acquire the investments would reduce the value of the shares. Otherwise, only mortgages held against real property are deductible when calculating the value of an estate for probate purposes.

6. MULTIPLE WILLS: Having separate wills for assets that do not, and for those that do, require probate may reduce the value of assets subject to probate. However, this technique is being challenged in some provinces. The added cost of separate wills and administering the estate must be weighed against the potential savings of probate fees.

If you plan now to reduce probate fees payable on your death, your heirs will thank you.

New Seniors Benefit

Anybody who turns 65 after the year 2000 should take an interest in the new Seniors Benefit, first announced by the federal government in March, 1996. At the time, the government made much of the fact that low-income seniors would get $120 more per year. No mention was made of the fact that middle- and upper-income couples could be faced with a major loss of benefits costing several thousand dollars.

FEATURES

Let us look first at the key features of the new rules.

Starting January 1, 2001, the new Seniors Benefit will replace four existing benefits for seniors:

- Old Age Security (OAS)
- Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS)
- Age Tax Credit
- $1,000 Pension Income Tax Credit.

The main features of the Seniors Benefit will be:

- A guaranteed income for senior couples of $18,440, and for singles of $11,420.
- The income will be tax-free and fully indexed to the Consumer Price Index.
- The income will be subject to clawback in two stages, based on family income as shown in the following table:

	COUPLES	SINGLES
50% of income up to	$16,200	$12,500
20% of income over	$26,000	$26,000
Benefit lost where income exceeds	$78,000	$52,000

PROBLEMS

Compared with the existing system, all but the poorest seniors will lose out on three counts. First, the elimination of the two tax credits will result in increased taxes. For example, the age credit is worth about $962 in federal and provincial tax savings for a senior, residing in Quebec, with income up to $26,000; thereafter, it is gradually clawed back and is eliminated altogether on income over $49,000. The pension income tax credit is worth about $342 to any senior residing in Quebec and with $1,000 or more of private pension or RRSP/RRIF income, regardless of income level.

The second problem is that the clawback is based on a senior couple's combined income and not on individual income. Currently, the OAS and age tax credit clawbacks are based on individual income. The change will particularly hurt those couples where one spouse receives most of the retirement income - a fairly common situation. Consider, for example, the case of a couple with $100,000 of retirement income; the husband receives $85,000 and his wife $15,000 (both incomes include at least $1,000 of private pension income). The husband is already subject to 100% clawback on OAS and the age tax credit.

The new regime will cost them as follows

	HUSBAND	WIFE	TOTAL
Loss of pension income tax credit	$270	$270	$540
Loss of age credit		$940	$940
Loss of OAS - $4,860 less tax at 27%		$3,550	$3,550
	$270	$4,760	$5,030

If you assume that the couple would otherwise have been paying about $52,000 in tax, the loss of $5,030 represents a 16% tax increase.

The third problem arises from the fact that the proposed Seniors Benefit will be tax free but will be clawed back on the basis of pre-tax income. For a senior with income of $60,000 who is in the top 50% tax bracket and whose spouse has no income, the marginal tax rate will be 70% on each extra dollar of income earned up to $78,000. The clawback has similar, but less pronounced, results in lower tax brackets. Seniors could be faced with paying tax at higher marginal rates after retirement than before. This is exactly the reverse of what is supposed to happen and would detract from the incentive to contribute to RRSPs to save for retirement.

Some of the problems would be resolved if retired couples were allowed to file joint returns and pay tax based on a tax rate table where the tax brackets are double what they currently are for a single individual.

APPLICATION

The above rules will only apply to individuals who turn 65 after the year 2000, and, in the case of a married couple, if both spouses turn 65 after 2000. If either spouse turns 65 before 2001, both will have the option of staying with the existing OAS GIS regime, and the clawback rules will apparently apply on the basis of each spouse's own income and not joint income. Whichever option is available, the age credit and the pension income credit are both scheduled to disappear in 2001.
